

Barron's Names Pinkerton "Extraordinary"

Feb. 2010

(Coeur d'Alene, ID) – For the third time, Barron's magazine has ranked Dan Pinkerton as the No. 1 financial advisor in Idaho, and was the only advisor in the nation specifically termed "extraordinary."

Barron's stated: "Extraordinary times call for extraordinary people like Dan Pinkerton. A financial advisor in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho and one of Barron's top 1,000 in America." The ranking is based on the depth and breadth of service offering, assets under management, regulatory records, revenues and philanthropy, according to Barron's. Advisors did not pay to be part of this ranking, nor is the ranking indicative of advisor's future performance.

Barron's wrote: "In 2006, Pinkerton recalls, his firm believed the U.S. was in a long-term bear market, and started moving his clients' portfolios from a "buy, hold, and hope" approach to using "advance and protect strategies," with exits built in across the board. That's still the plan." As situations warrant, Pinkerton employs passive, active, tactical, and alternative investment strategies. He's struck by how often other advisors constrain their investing style. "From the portfolios I review, I see advisors getting stuck in one philosophy of investing and not diversifying effectively," he says. The father of nine, Pinkerton is an accomplished violinist who enjoys playing his century-old Italian violin."

Dan Pinkerton founded the firm in 1987 after graduating from Stanford University, and more than 90 percent of its growth has occurred since he moved the firm to Coeur d'Alene in 1997.

"Once again, we are grateful to our Coeur d'Alene community, our clients nationwide and our trustworthy and dedicated staff," he said. "We received this award because of the combined efforts of many extraordinary people."

The Pinkerton Retirement Specialists team is located in Coeur d'Alene Idaho.

More at pinkertonretirement.com and <http://www.barrons.com/articles/SB126662296193648683>

Pinkerton Retirement Specialists is a Registered Investment Advisor. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.